UETHDA Neighborhood Service Centers giving out free, safe, energy efficient heaters to those in need

(Northeast Tennessee) The Upper East Tennessee Human Development Agency is spreading warmth during this cold winter season to those in need in Northeast Tennessee. The Warming Project is an initiative to distribute Mainstay Infrared Quartz Heaters through the agency's nine Neighborhood Service Centers. In order to receive a heating unit, one can contact their local Neighborhood Service Center. The recipient must meet the income eligibility guidelines. The heating units produce sun-like radiant heat, are easy to operate and very quiet. Most importantly, they are safe and energy efficient. To find out more information, visit www.uethda.org to locate the nearest Neighborhood Service Center or call our Kingsport headquarters at (423)246-6180.

Upper East Tennessee Human Development Agency

Head quartered in Kingsport at the VO Dobbins Complex, UETHDA has been providing the tools, education, and support for a better life for over 50 years. The agency is one of thousands of Community Action Agencies in the United States operated by the National Community Action Partnership. UETHDA serves eight counties in northeast Tennessee: Carter, Greene, Hawkins, Hancock, Johnson, Sullivan, Washington and Unicoi. UETHDA has a variety of programs from emergency assistance to more long terms paths for self-sufficiency, including national programs such as Head Start, Low Income Home Energy Assistance Program (LIHEAP), Weatherization Assistance Program (WAP) and more. UETHDA operates nine neighborhood service centers in those eight counties.
